COMMISSIONERS AND CITY DADS TALK OF RELIEF

Effort Being Made To End Difficulties Concerning Administration Costs

MARCY QUOTES FIGURES

Councilmen Fear Task May Be Tossed Back Into Circleville Hands

County commissioners and representatives of City Council met in the commissioners' office at the court house Monday with one common thought—relief.

Both commissioners and Council Representatives Frank Lynch and Joe W. Adkins hoped that before the session ended, some solution to the city-county relief dilemma could be reached. With an $8,000 relief debt to the county, city council is threatened with the possibility that commissioners may throw the entire problem of relief administration back into the city's hands.

Councilmen are already considering the result of such a move, and at their meeting last Wednesday night began setting up figures to determine whether or not city relief could be administered cheaper through city offices than through the County Welfare Department. On its present budget basis, relief will cost the city approximately $16,000 next year, councilmen estimate, with no funds available for its payment.

November Cost Down

Relief Director Delos Marcy told commissioners and council representatives Monday that the city's relief costs for November amounted to $1,273.15, less than the November cost has been for the last three years. In November, 1939, city relief, including administration cost, $5,649.85, he said, and in November, 1938, $4,522.38.

With the city handling 125 relief families, including 429 people during November, actual cost per family for the month was $10.19 and per person was $2.97. Marcy denied that relief could be administered any cheaper under city administration, and cited a report from the State Department of Welfare showing that although Pickaway County relief costs had been higher than those of neighboring counties over a ten-month period during October they had been considerably lower.

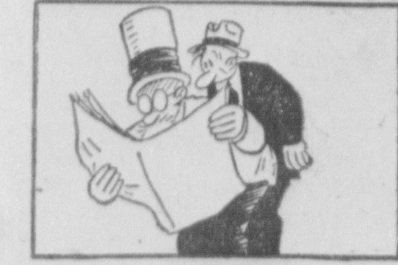

Relief costs for Pickaway County for October were $3,467.41. For Ross County they were $5,119.78; Fairfield, not including Lancaster, $4,334.37; Lancaster $590.33 and Fayette County $3,516.58.

Army Corps Trying New Projectiles

Cannon Placed On New Planes May Carry High Explosives

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The United States Army Air Corps is experimenting with four-pound cannon projectiles to see if they can be packed with high explosives, it was learned today.

Should these experiments prove successful, American cannon-bearing planes will be converted into formidable instruments of death, capable of blasting an enemy airship out of the sky with a single hit.

The tests follow acceptance by the Army of the Bell Aircraft Company's great 400-mile-an-hour "airacobra," a single seater fighting plane which mounts a 37 millimeter cannon in its nose.

This plane as it now stands is capable of firing, at the rate of 30 a minute, projectiles which are one and a half inches in diameter and which weigh four pounds.

These projectiles, however, do not explode, differentiated from shells, which are bullets loaded with explosives set to burst when the target is hit.

Never in the history of air warfare have planes been equipped with shell-firing guns, it was said. Prior to the present war, fighting aircraft could not mount larger guns than 50 calibre machine guns, which fire projectiles more than one third the size of the 37 mm cannon.

BLAKES INJURED IN AUTO WRECK IN N. CAROLINA

ROMANIANS BRAVE GUNFIRE TO ESCAPE IRON GUARD TERROR

Hundreds Of Refugees Cross Danube In Half-Swamped Canoes Following Uprising; Gigurti Reported Slain

BUDAPEST, Dec. 2—Dodging rifle fire from Romanian frontier forces, hundreds of refugees from Romanian Iron Guard terrorism have paddled in crowded, half-swamped canoes across the Danube River into Bulgaria, according to reports in Budapest today.

Pitiful stories poured into this city, telling of men, women and children, terrified of Iron Guard violence, climbing through windows in their night-clothes to escape roving bands of the green shirts and then crossing the river in tiny craft.

Many of the refugees who left their homes and most of their possessions in the dead of night were said to have been killed by Romanian border guards as they sought sanctuary.

Others drowned as their unseaworthy craft capsized in the river rapids. Those who survived owed their lives to the darkness. Peniless and hungry, those who reached the Bulgarian shore were placed under charge of Bulgarian authorities. Many of the refugees were government employees and many were Jews.

The mass flight coincided with reports of a new but brief earthquake in Bucharest yesterday which increased the alarm of residents of the Romanian capital.

Gigurti, Bratiano Dead?

While the earth shook to the tremors of nature, the Iron Guard went forward with its deadly work. Apparently reliable but officially unconfirmed reports said two more Romanian ex-premiers, Ion Gigurti and George Bratiano, were said to have been seized from protective custody by Iron Guardists and slain.

They were believed to have added two more prominent names to the death roll of some 2,100 killed in Romania's blood purge which began last Wednesday with the execution of 64 former leaders by Iron Guard firing squads.

According to some reports King Michael left the royal palace in Bucharest Friday night and sought

GREEKS CONTINUE DRIVE

General Offensive Being Conducted Along Wide Albanian Front

LONDON, Dec. 2—Executions are being carried out among Italian officers and troops as a result of the disorderly retreat in Greece, the London Evening Standard said today.

Quoting the Athens newspaper Acropolis, the Standard said the victims included "many officers." It was assumed the executions had been ordered by the Italian high command.

From Lake Ochrida all the way to the sea, the Standard said, the Italians are abandoning "position after position." They have suffered heavy casualties and left behind vast quantities of war materials.

Two thousand Italian soldiers were reported to have deserted into Yugoslavia, taking 30 heavy guns, 70 trucks and tanks, mortars and machine-guns.

Even newly-arrived Italian reinforcements are fleeing in disorder or surrendering immediately after coming into contact with the Greeks, the Standard said.

ATHENS, Dec. 2—Capturing, killing or wounding large numbers of Italians, Greek troops today were reported crashing through heavily defended Italian positions in a fierce general offensive along the entire Albanian front.

Premier Mussolini's Fascist legions were thrown into full retreat, it was claimed. In the Pograde sector the Italians were said to be rushing headlong toward Elbasan, while further south reinforced Fascist troops suffered a severe defeat near Premeti.

Material Taken

These troops left their artillery and machine guns in position as the Greeks stormed the Italian mountain defenses and captured the abandoned material, in a series of fierce bayonet charges. British and Greek airmen pounded and hammered the fleeing Italians.

(Editor's Note: Stressing the need for increased aircraft support, the Athens radio issued an appeal to Britain for more help, according to a Reuters dispatch.)

According to latest reports in Athens, operations were developing "successfully" eight miles beyond Koriza, where a continued Greek attack dislodged fresh Italian reinforcements fighting rear-guard actions.

Authorized Grecian military sources said that along the entire front from the sea to Lake Ochrid "Greek troops are chasing the enemy with utmost tenacity. They added:

"Despite heavy snow, our troops

British Convoy Feared Trapped By Submarine

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—Terse S.O.S. calls from five ships in the North Atlantic, reporting a dawn U-boat attack, were picked up in New York today by Mackay Radio.

With all five vessels reporting from approximately the same position, 300 miles northwest of Eire, it was assumed that a German submarine had caught a British merchant convoy unawares.

Two of the steamers, the 5,497-ton Lady Glenelg, and the 5,448-ton Goodleigh, reported that they had been torpedoed, while a third ship, identified only by the radio call letters GKIF, reported she was being attacked by a U-boat.

Two other vessels, one unidentified, and one which flashed a name believed to be the S. S. Victoria, sent out "torpedoed" messages and pleas for immediate assistance.

Latest S.O.S. received was from the Goodleigh which was attacked at 5:45 a. m. She gave her position as latitude 55.02 north, longitude 18.45 west.

The distress calls from all of the vessels covered an approximate two hour period.

BRITISH ADMIT DAMAGE

London Says Casualties Not So Great, Despite Property Wreckage

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Dec. 2—Many important industrial plants in this key point of Great Britain's defense were damaged or wrecked in a series of terrific German air raids over the week end, it was established today.

Hundreds of workers battling their way through debris-choked streets arrived at their places of employment this morning only to discover them in complete ruins.

There is no shielding the fact that heavy damage was done. Entire areas of the town are in ruins.

BERLIN, Dec. 2—Britain's great south coast port of Southampton is blanketed by a huge, yellowish cloud of smoke, grim testimony to the pounding it has taken in repeated German air raids, Nazi reconnaissance pilots reported after flying over the city this morning.

Last night's German attack was reported as extensive and heavy as any Southampton has suffered, and German quarters said there probably was little left of the town save "waste and ruins."

After attacking the important coastal port for many hours, Nazi raiders kept pounding Southampton during the night and early today to "pulverize its commercial, transportation and port facilities."

Showers of fire bombs and tons of explosives have rained on the drydocks, industrial plants, and

LONDON—New British bombing attacks on objectives along the Nazi-held French coast were announced by the Air Ministry today. A communique stated: "Yesterday morning aircraft of the coastal command attacked the submarine base and naval docks at Lorient. In the evening our planes bombed the power station, jetty and drydocks at Brest."

TOKYO — Announcement that the United States will decline to recognize the new Japanese-sponsored Chinese government at Nanking was called "just what we expected" by a Japanese foreign office spokesman today.

RUSSIANS DENY RUMORS OF BESSARABIA STRIFE

MOSCOW, Dec. 2—Foreign rumors of a "revolt" in Bessarabia, ceded to the USSR by Romania last June, were denied today by Russian authorities.

railway lines for the last two days and nights, and according to Nazi military quarters great fires are now sweeping the trans-Atlantic port.

Fires and Raiders

The giant fires, which shot sparks and flame high into the sky, directed German raiders during the night attacks, an official announcement said. The fires are reportedly of such an intensity and size that they can be seen from Cherbourg, 75 miles across the English Channel.

Simultaneous with the "rolling attacks" on Southampton, other Nazi squadrons were reported to have raided London during the night and early today, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs.

New successes on the sea were claimed by the high command in a communique which reported that a single Nazi surface raider had sunk 79,000 tons of British shipping on the high seas. Five British destroyers also were listed as possibly destroyed or damaged.

Damage to a German steamer by torpedoes fired from a British torpedo boat off the coast of Holland was admitted by the high command. Escorting German warships reportedly inflicted heavy damage on three of the British speed boats, two of which "must be considered total losses."

(Editor's Note: In London, the admiralty reported that the 5,943-ton German supply ship Santos had been "attacked and damaged" by a British "mosquito" boat patrol. One torpedo-carrier was "superficially damaged," and two seamen were wounded by German shell fire, the admiralty said.)

LONDON, Dec. 2.—British officials admitted today that the south coast port and city of Southampton was the main objective of last night's heavy German air attack.

The London Air Ministry stated that a number of fires were started in Southampton by the raiders, but that all the blazes were "well under control" by day-break.

The heavy German attack on Southampton last night and early today marked resumption of the battering fire raids which previously brought death and wide damage to Coventry, Birmingham and Liverpool.

Crossing the southeast coast under cover of poor visibility still more Messerschmitts and Nazi fighter-bombers made several attempts to crack coastline aerial defenses.

At least one plane was shot to pieces in mid-air as British Spitfire patrols rammed into several formations. Another craft was believed shot down, but this could not be verified due to poor visibility.

Active in Other Areas

Operating despite clouds and heavy fog, German bombers also were active over the midlands, southwest England, Liverpool and London.

The heaviest blows fell on the south coast town, where flames first were dropped, then incendiaries to start fires, and finally high explosive bombs. One area of the city also was machine-gunned by a single Nazi plane.

The Air Ministry communique said that the night attacks were concentrated mainly against southern England, where buildings were damaged by high explosives and fire and where some persons were killed and injured.

Full casualty reports were not yet available, but the communique stated that it was believed the number of casualties was not large.

Bombs were dropped on London and the home counties surrounding the capital, the Air Ministry stated, as well as on a few points elsewhere, but latest reports indicated little damage and few casualties in these sections.

In the attack on London, single raiders flew over the city spasmodically. Anti-aircraft fire in the capital was lighter than usual. London's nightly air raid alarm—ended shortly after midnight.

Meanwhile, a rumble of explosions from the direction of the French coast during the night led to belief that RAF planes had attacked targets there. Nothing was visible, however, in the dense fog from the English shoreline.

Both cars were headed toward Circleville. Considerable damage was reported done to the rear of Levan's car and to the front end of Young's car.

been unable to convert four pound 37 mm projectiles into shells by packing them with explosives, as they have proved to be too small to carry an effective load. Explosives are now confined to only the largest guns and howitzers.

The current experiments are attempts at loading the four pound projectile with TNT or some other high explosive. Until this is done, planes must continue to confine their destructive capacity to unloaded missiles. With the ever increasing improvements in the armament of enemy planes and such protective devices as the self-sealing gasoline tank, many hits are now needed before an enemy ship can be downed unless a lucky projectile pierces a particularly vulnerable spot or hits the pilot.

On the other hand, should planes be capable of firing explosive-laden shells, the prolonged air "dog fights" will be ended. One hit with such a shell, even though it were administered from several miles away, would serve to blast an enemy ship into pieces.

FACTORY BURNS; DYNAMITE CACHE FOUND IN FIELD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—Factories turning out National Defense orders in the Los Angeles area today were ordered to maintain increased vigilance against sabotage after one plant was razed by fire and a cache of dynamite was found near another.

Local and federal officials searched the ruins of the Gilfillan Brothers Radio Manufacturing Plant for evidence of possible sabotage after a fire destroyed the factory Saturday with a loss estimated at more than $500,000.

Thirty-six sticks of dynamite were found hidden in a vacant lot near the huge General Motors automobile plant in South Gate after the Los Angeles sheriff's office was "tipped" off of a plot to damage the factory.

The radio concern was manufacturing airplane radio sets and other equipment for the United States Army, company officials said.

Authorities declared that several General Motors employees will be questioned in connection with the discovery of the dynamite cache.

HITLER'S AGENT ESCAPES BOMB, LONDON REPORTS

LONDON, Dec. 2.—"Serious disturbances" are occurring in Norway following an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Major Vidkun Quisling, chief of the Nazi-controlled Norwegian government, Reuter's (British) news agency reported today.

The attempt against Quisling's life was made at Frederikstad, Reuter said.

One bomb already has been thrown at Quisling as nation-wide bitterness against the Nazi regime flared into violence with many followers of the government head having been kidnapped and beaten up, Reuter said.

Quisling was leaving a meeting when the bomb was thrown by a man in the midst of a crowd of hecklers. The missile exploded harmlessly.

Later, Quisling was so violently heckled at another meeting, Reuter said, that Sarsborg police were compelled to intervene to restore order.

MOTHER'S CRY FOR AID SAVES CHILDREN'S LIVES

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—Action of the 40-year-old mother of 13 in calling for aid from neighbors today was credited with saving the lives of 13 members of her family when they were overcome by fumes from a defective water heater in their East Side home.

Mrs. James Horacek, her husband and 11 of her children were at home when one by one members of the family became dazed or unconscious. Noticing the fumes, Mrs. Horacek called neighbors, living next door, ran to her aid, opening windows and helping to get members of the family out of the house.

Mrs. Horacek herself was overcome while carrying her youngest son, a two-year-old, from the house. She was revived when the family dog licked her face.

The family was rescued by neighbors who opened windows and helped to get members of the family out of the house.

MANY BODIES REMOVED

Accumulated Gas Is Blamed
For Tragedy, Declares
Union Chief

CADIZ, Dec. 2 — The badly-burned bodies of four more of the 31 miners whose lives were snuffed out when a terrific blast tore through the nearby Nelms coal mine were brought to the surface early today.

The shattered bodies of 22 others, wrapped in canvass in a pitiful attempt to shield them from curious eyes, lay in an improvised morgue which formerly was a backsmith shop. Another body, recovered Saturday, was in a Cadiz funeral home, four miles away.

Meanwhile, weary crews doggedly pressed forward through tons of earth and rock in their search for the other four victims, Bob Dinger, Jess Rayl, John Smith and Bryan Griffith, New cave-ins and "bad air," as well as black damp, the deadly gas which follows mine explosions, slowed up rescue efforts in blast-torn Section 12, 460 feet below the surface and 2,000 feet from the main shaft.

The bodies brought up today were identified as those of George Dowdell, Ben Mazeroski, Andy Marcus and Alfred James. Those recovered yesterday were identified as those of Homer Knox, Ed Prather, F. H. Woods, Leonard Pannin, William Carr, Emerson Howes, Lewis Sedgwick, Steve Nemeth, Ora Forms, Dan Smith, Herbert Jarboe, Frank Mazeroski, John Mattern, Jules Courtville, Joe Hornyak, David McIntyre, Edgar Marchbank, John Bernard, James Hauber, Robert Browning, Cliff Rayl and Mike Finn.

The nearly-decapitated body of Pete Speicher was found Saturday.

Two Crews Trapped

About 150 other employees of the Ohio & Pennsylvania Coal Co., operators of the mine, fled to safety when the explosion ripped through the ill-fated section, but two full crews were trapped as the brattises collapsed.

Cadiz, which had scheduled its annual Christmas parade for today, postponed the festivities for a week as a gesture of respect and grieving for the mine victims.

While no official verdict as to the cause of the blast was forthcoming from state inspectors or company officials, John Owens, Ohio district president of the United Mine Workers, blamed the explosion on accumulated gas.

"The blast could have been prevented if we had adequate regulation and inspection of mines," he asserted.

A bill providing for the establishment of a federal bureau of mine inspection is now pending before the national house of representatives.

Second In Nine Months

The disaster was the second major mine catastrophe in the same section of Ohio in nine months. On March 16 an explosion wrecked a portion of the Willow Grove mine, only 17 miles away, and claimed 72 lives.

ACE OF GERMAN AIR CORPS LOST IN BRITISH RAID

BERLIN, Dec. 2 — Lieutenant Colonel Helmuth Wick, one of Germany's ace pilots and leader of the famous Richthofen squadron, was listed as missing on the official air force casualty report today.

The 25-year-old crack pilot, who has been credited with shooting down 56 British planes, and who was decorated by Chancellor Hitler for his achievements, disappeared in a raid over Britain on November 28.

Later, however, search for the aviator was spurred when German pilots reported seeing him bail out by parachute from his plane before the machine crashed.

QUEEN Mother Helen of Romania, mother of King Michael, is reported to have fled Bucharest and gone into exile in Florence, Italy, because of the chaotic state of Romanian affairs. King Michael, who considers himself a virtual prisoner in his own palace, is reported also planning to quit the country. The king and his mother are pictured above on a happier occasion—her return to Bucharest after Michael's father, former King Carol, abdicated.

NEW MEXICAN PRESIDENT

In the dispatches about the inauguration yesterday (December 1) of Mexico's new president, Manuel Avila Camacho, nothing is said of his mother, who stands upright in her grave in the State of Puebla.

Senora Camacho de Avila, mother of four sons, was one of the most colorful and dynamic women in the history of Mexico. She died only a year ago, and her last words were to direct that she should be buried upright in the ground. "The Avila Camachos," she said, "have always stood on their feet."

Accordingly, the coffin was put into the ground in an upright position, in the town of Tezuitlan, State of Puebla.

The people of that state needed no such graphic action to remember her. For her sons will not allow her to be forgotten. One now becomes President of the country. Another, Maximino Avila Camacho, is Governor of the State of Puebla, actually a stronger figure than the President.

He is the Mussolini of Mexico—physically powerful, lusty and unscrupulous. The owner of 100 full blooded horses and an amateur bull fighter, he stages private bull fights for the amusement of distinguished visitors.

Chances are that it is this mother's son, rather than Manuel, who will run the Government of Mexico.

BOMB SCARES

Stories of bomb plots and foreign sabotage have made officials of the United States Government just a bit jittery, and apparently, G-men now are making a nightly examination of the halls of Congress. Here are the results of two such bomb-scare investigations:

Bomb Scare No. 1: At 10 p. m. Saturday night, not a creature stirring in the House Press Gallery, except the correspondent of a local paper diligently pounding out an "overnight" story for an early morning edition.

Suddenly there was an eerie noise in the rear, as of a door being surreptitiously opened, followed by a soft shuffling. The newsman investigated, found a strange youth poking around under some desks.

"Hey, what are you doing here?" demanded the reporter.

The mysterious visitor silently flashed an FBI badge, silently continued his searchings.

"What's up? Bomb?" asked the reporter, recalling a recent story that a stick of dynamite had been found near the Senate garage. The G-man shot him a cryptic look, and continued his probing.

This confirmed the newsman's worst fears. "Say," he exclaimed, heading for the door, "let me out of here."

"Don't get excited," called the G-man. "I'm just making a regular inspection."

By this time the G-man had reached the stationery closet, which he proceeded to examine thoroughly, finally emerging with a dark, glistening object.

"You newspaper guys," he grinned, "are all alike."

"Hey, put that bottle back," shouted the reporter. "That's our early morning supply."

Bomb Scare No. 2: Inside story of that Charleston (Boston) Navy Yard dynamite scare, which caused hundreds of women workers to be searched, is that someone was drunk.

What happened was that the Officer of the Day received a telephone call that the Yard would be blown up the next day. The officer kept the conversation going, but meanwhile got police to trace the call and arrest the man.

Investigation disclosed that he was an employee of the Yard, that he was drunk, and once had been an inmate of a mental institution.

However, to take no chances, Navy and police officials decided to search all workers the next morning.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Representative Mike Bradley, scrappy Philadelphia New Dealer, is being vigorously pushed by the House labor bloc for a place on the Labor Committee. Bradley comes from a strong labor district and is eager for a seat on this powerful committee. As chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, Representative Andrew May of Kentucky, nominally was floor leader for the conscription bill, but the man who really put it through the House was El Paso's tall, popular Representative Ewing Thomason, who put in the ticks that counted when they were needed.

Here's Official Number List For Draft

Editor's Note: The Herald publishes each day a number of names, Serial and Order Numbers of Pickaway Countians who registered under the Selective Service Act. This list is the official one as announced by the Draft Board. In the publication will be the name, serial and order number of each man who registered. In the list below the first number listed is the Serial Number; the second is the Order Number. For instance, Ivan Defenbaugh registered. After the registration was completed the local Draft Board shuffled the names and conducted its draw. Defenbaugh was given No. 2232 Serial Number. Later the lottery in Washington and Defenbaugh's No. 2232 was the 2689th Pickaway County number drawn from the glass bowl. So he will be the 2689th in the county to receive his questionnaire the answers on which will decide whether he will be ordered into service for a year. In each instance below, the first number is the Serial Number and the second one is the Order Number, the order in which the registrant will be asked to fill his questionnaire.

GREEK RESURRECTION

It is evident by this time that, in spite of the adage, history can repeat itself, and that in a supposedly prosaic and mechanical world the impossible can happen. The human spirit is still superior to the machine. And thus we have seen, in this most mechanized and inhuman of all wars, the miracle of another Marathon.

Surely no less than a repetition of that glorious chapter in Greek history is the heroic rally of the modern Hellenes, and the quick, clean sweeping from their soil of every vestige of the invading army that would have made them slaves.

They had help—yes—from another democracy, threatened like themselves and already fighting for its life on a hundred fronts. Yet the initiation and the victory were distinctly theirs, for they had launched into their seemingly hopeless defense alone, and apparently would have fought to the last man—or woman—for their land and liberty.

The Greeks might yet be crushed by the overwhelming weight of the Nazi-Fascist war machine, with its enormous armies and equipment and air power. The odds still seem hopelessly against them, until you remember the moral force and the new hope aroused by their courage in the hearts of other nations already conquered or fearing conquest. Now the ferment of freedom is spreading and the valor of Finland, Greece and Britain is moving one threatened or captive nation after another to rise and show its manhood. There are no more impossibilities. Anything heroic may happen now.

WOMEN AND WAR

FOR a while American women who saw the horror of war believed they could end it by signing petitions against it, getting laws passed to outlaw it, or urging international pacts pledging non-aggression. When those measures failed, women were shocked, but not downed. They began to tackle the job from a different angle.

Mrs. Dana C. Backus, leader of a group studying this subject, reminds women that wars will continue to break out "whenever the means of peaceful settlement are absent or have failed," and gives the following advice:

"Distinguish between the basic causes of war and the parasitic forces, such as the munitions industries, which thrive on international chaos and become the spectacular elements of war, but which are only secondary factors in disrupting the peace of the world.

"Encourage active cooperation with people of other races, creeds and cultures,

WORLD AT A GLANCE

JOHN L. LEWIS' present objective is well known to be the creation of a third political party of national proportions. He suggested the idea some time before our last presidential election, but didn't get around to an attempt to realize them. Probably he hit on the notion too late—hadn't a sufficient interval to get an organization going before Nov. 5. Now he has four years ahead of him, within which to develop his plan.

When John promised to quit as C. I. O. head if Franklin D. Roosevelt were re-elected, some of his pretty faithful followers figured that he'd climbed over far out on a limb. Today's indications are that he'd calculated very thoughtfully. If Wendell Willkie had won, his limb would have been all right. If it had cracked under him, he'd be in a position to land in his third party hanging basket. It isn't altogether certain that he isn't glad it did crack, he's fixed to proceed with the scheme he had in mind all along.

Presumably Lewis' policy will be to build his prospective new party around the framework of Labor's Non-Partisan League. His surrender of his C. I. O. nominal leadership didn't amount to much. It didn't pay any salary. And Philip Murray, who succeeded him, is supposed to be only his rubber stamp. Phil, to be sure, didn't adhere to John, as to the latter's

VETO FOR WALTER-LOGAN BILL

WASHINGTON—You can put it down as certain that the President will not give the Walter-Logan bill a pocket veto; that is, let it die without comment. He will veto it with a scorching blast.

Some of Roosevelt's congressional chiefs want a pocket veto so as not to stir up another battle. They argue that it is best to let sleeping dogs lie. But Roosevelt doesn't see it that way.

He considers the Walter-Logan bill an adroit scheme by big business to scuttle major New Deal reforms through legalistic obstructions, after failing to lick them at the polls and in the Supreme Court. Among the brickbats Roosevelt will heave at the bill will be these:

1. That it will block the defense program by permitting manufacturers to tie the Government's hands in pushing production.
2. That the bill, which professes to give hearings to complainants, actually was jammed through Congress without a hearing on its merits.
3. That the bill was passed by a vote of less than one-third of the Senate when only one-half of the chamber was present. The vote was 27 to 25.
4. That the real purpose of the legislation is to destroy the National Labor Relations Board, Wage-Hour Division, and Securities and Exchange Commission.
5. That the bill was drafted by big business interests and put through by a corps of lobbyists, supported by a nationwide campaign of misrepresentation as to its real nature and purpose.

AID FOR GREECE

The mail sack arriving at the Greek Legation these mornings at last is showing evidence of popular support for the Greek cause. Letters are pouring in, many with enclosures of cash.

A Mississippi school teacher sends five dollars; an unknown man from Arkansas sends six dollars; Oscar L. Johnson and Harry L. Carpel, both of Washington, send $100 each. The total has reached $40,000, all forwarded to New York, where a special committee is handling contributions.

One letter came from a retired Army engineer in Atlanta, who says, "I could still pass for forty," and asks to enlist in the Greek Army. In New Brunswick, N. J., a group of young aviators who flew for Finland now want to fly for Greece.

Authors of these letters get answers signed by the longest name in Washington's diplomatic corps—Diamantopoulos. (Continued on Page Three) for lack of understanding of other people's problems often sows the seeds of war.

"Aid those forces throughout the world that are struggling for freedom and democracy. Strive to discover ways of making the future effort for world peace a positive dynamic undertaking, coupled with a program for world government by the consent of the governed. Support immediately and further all projects, even though only partial in scope, which will serve as steps toward world government."

This is not day-dreaming or wishful thinking, but application of intelligence to a cause that has long had the support of the heart.

anti-Roosevelt attitude, and may-be he'll balk on staying by John's anti-Rooseveltianism—henceforward. Still, it's to be remembered that Phil's a sub-official of the United Mine Workers, of which John continues as president at $25,000 annually.

HE'S FORMIDABLE
John L. Lewis, be it understood, is a formidable character. He's been journalistically mentioned as frowsy-headed, beetle-browed and overbearing.

John Lewis is a neighbor of mine in our Washingtonian suburb of Alexandria (Va.), and I've even ridden into town with him on the bus, when he expensive auto was temporarily out of commission. He's frowsy-headed and beetle-browed, but I never found him overbearing. On the contrary, I think he's a middling good mixer.

About five years ago, when John was initiating his split-off from the A. F. of L., I had a lot of sympathy with him.

The A. F. of L. is a federation of craft unions. In my particular business the Typographical Union was one of them. I was on the editorial end of the newspaper business. I thought that my bunch ought to be unionized, too. Heaven knows, I was aware that my crew needed to be organized also. But the Typographical Union or the stereotypers or any of the rest of the mechanical outfits didn't care

DIET AND HEALTH

Childhood Is Time to Start Fight Tuberculosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

● If the modern conception of the nature and cause of tuberculosis be correct, the school child is the logical and natural person to start to work on. Tuberculosis begins in childhood. It does not manifest the same symptoms in childhood as in adult life; the symptoms in childhood may be so slight as to be unnoticeable—perhaps no more than underweight and an occasional spell of low fever. Children under favorable environmental conditions get over this early stage. But those underprivileged who have a minimum amount of nourishing food to eat, and stuff, enclosed living quarters, tend to progress to the adult type of tuberculosis which develops in the lungs and in its final stages is aptly called consumption.

The child who lives in better conditions, with plenty of fresh air, and an adequate diet—adequate as to nourishment, calories, vitamins and minerals—stands a very good chance (the odds are 99 to 1) of overcoming the initial invasion of the disease.

Schools Can Help
If, as I say, these facts are true—and they have been arrived at by long painstaking observation and are not disputed so far as I know by any competent authority—the part that the school can play in helping to reduce the danger must be obvious.

The open air classroom provides a deterrent to the advance of tuberculosis in childhood, and undoubtedly prevents the development of the adult type of the disease in many instances. Pupils for open air classes are selected in many ways. Sometimes a school nurse finds that home conditions of a child are not healthy. That they are, in fact, conducive to the development of tuberculosis. So on general principles, she advises the child be put in the open air room. Others are picked up by school physicians, or sent in by family physicians or clinics.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
J. H. L., Elmer, N. J.: "Please print a list of 45 instances that cause cancer."

Answer: Except for a very few irritative substances such as tar—and these are doubtful—there are no known causes of cancer.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE "DESCHAPPELLES COUP"
M. DESCHAPPELLES was a famous Whist player of France. He was particularly noted for type of play which now is part of the standard equipment of all fine contract bridge players, a play which has been named for him, the "Deschappelles Coup." It consists of sacrificing a high card, which otherwise would be a sure trick taker, in order to knock an entry out of opponent's hand, heading off the run of his suit, and at the same time build up a smaller card as an entry to the hand of your partner, who has a suit of his own to run.

Now, mine workers? They're diggers in mines. They're electricians in mines. They're teamsters in mines. They're explosive experts. They're blacksmiths. They're everybody connected with the mining industry. John wanted 'em amalgamated. He called an industry a total industry—not a group of separate craft industries.

TOTAL UNIONIZATION
The merger becomes more and more necessary, says John L. Lewis, as we condense into mass industry, like the automobile business. What John wants is total, not merely group unionization.

That's where the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. differ. Furthermore, the A. F. of L. still wants to keep clear of partisan politics. It'll pick candidates, individually, but not partially. The C. I. O. proposes to have candidates of its own—under a new party label.

I mean, under John L. Lewis' label. It's a mistake to think that, because John L. has done some resigning, he's retiring from his place in the limelight.

The one place in the world in which there is never enough buck passing is church, when the collection plate makes the rounds. We've come to that time of the year when football coaches again have no trouble falling promptly asleep on Friday nights.

On Wings of Song

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
KIT KNEW that some day it would have to happen. She'd known ever since that day in March, when Vance said, "Kit, I want you to meet a girl," that some day a door would open, or she'd look across the room and see Vance looking at Mimi Purcell with a proud, possessive look, a look that would have meant heaven for her if it had rested on her.

She knew it was inevitable. But she had known it would be that Sunday afternoon at the end of May, she would not have said to Jerry Sembler, "I'll go to Danbury with you if you'll stop off at Greenwich. Gwen is giving a big party to celebrate her wedding anniversary."

Driving out to the country, Jerry said, "You'll be enchanted with this little inn. It's over a hundred years old and serves the best food I've ever tasted. There's a balalaika band there. You'll like that, won't you?"

She said, "Of course I will. I like all the things you are always finding for me to enjoy."

"How about liking me for a change?"

Kit said, "I can't stand you! That's why I don't see you more than three times a week. This must be Gwen's place. I recognize the boxwood hedge."

It was with some relief that Kit called his attention to their arrival. Lately, Jerry had been pressing her to acknowledge the motive of his devotion. She was finding it increasingly difficult to pretend to Jerry that she believed his feeling for her was nothing more than friendship.

The long drive that circled past the Spencers' colonial mansion was filled already with sleek cars, two deep.

"Looks like there's a mob here," Jerry said.

There was a mob. The rooms through which they passed were filled and there were groups of men and women spilling over the brick terraces and the lawns around the swimming pool.

Kit nodded to a few familiar faces and stopped to speak to Tom Spencer. She said, "I'll find Gwen some place." She lost Jerry somewhere on route.

Her searching glance circled the room.

The floor seemed to fall away from her; the faces and voices around her melted into a blur.

Two faces stood out cruelly clear—Vance's face, and the cool, classical face of the girl toward which his was bent.

The life seemed to have gone out of her body. The palms of her hands were clammy, and she could feel the dampness break through her forehead. She felt quick panic, knowing that she had to get out of that room, fearing she hadn't the power to move.

Out of the blur a large friendly face came into the near range of her vision, and an eager, stuttering voice said, "M-miss O'Reilly! Gwen said you'd be here. I've been looking everywhere for you."

Kit smiled with effort and tried to remember who he was. His face was familiar, but her memory seemed to be as numb as the rest of her.

"You haven't had a cocktail, have you? P-please take this one."

She took it gratefully. The liquid warmed the empty pit of her stomach. Her pulse returned as her body began to feel normal again.

The large friendly face connected with a big figure in shaggy tweeds. Kit fixed her gaze on that face with rapt attention, but she never could remember, later, what he said to her for all that her attention was so firmly fixed on him.

"You were saying that you thought the Great Dane was the most noble of dogs. Do you remember, Miss O'Reilly?"

"Of course," she murmured, never taking her eyes from his face.

"Well, that's a very p-peculiar thing. S-since then, I've discovered that the Greeks, during the Middle Ages, s-s-struck a coin with a remarkable likeness to the Dane on its f-face."

"Is that really so?" Her voice seemed to belong to someone else.

"The whole history of the Dane isn't quite clear b-because there's a lack of s-scientific data about all b-big dogs. Although it is known that in Eng-Eng-England and C-central Europe—"

Vance's voice cut in on the history.

"Fancy seeing you here," he said at Kit's elbow.

Mrs. Paul Adkins Heads
Mistletoe Dance Group

Plans Being Made
For Annual Function

Mrs. Paul Adkins was chosen general chairman for the Mistletoe Charity Ball of 1940 at the business meeting of the committee Saturday at the home of Mrs. John Blosser, East Mound Street. Mrs. Adkins served previously as chairman for the dances of 1931 and 1933, while Mrs. Blosser was in charge of the 1939 affair which proved outstanding in the social activities of the holiday season.

While plans as yet are in merely formative state, the committee is arranging for the dance to be in Memorial Hall immediately following Christmas. As usual they are planning to secure the best possible orchestra for the occasion.

Since 1923 when the first "Roundtown Mistletoe Dance" (as it was then called) was held in the Elk's Club, the social sets of Circleville from the 'teen-age groups to the older ones have participated in the annual affairs with such enthusiasm that each year a substantial sum has been realized by the committee for some worthy local charity.

During the years since the first ball, 17 individuals have been connected with the organization. No member has ever profited by any contribution to the society. Around $1,200 has been donated to charity by the committee in the last 11 years, through the Circleville Benevolent Association, the Pickaway County Public Health League and the American Red Cross. Last year the Circleville Benevolent Association received $175 from the committee, the largest sum earned at any one of the annual balls.

In addition to Mrs. Adkins and Mrs. Blosser, other committee members are Mrs. Donald H. Watt, Mrs. Joseph W. Adkins, Jr., Miss Eleanor Snyder, Miss Mary Hayes, Miss Mary Newmyer, Circleville; Mrs. Robert Smith, New Holland; Mrs. William D. Radcliff, Williamsport; Mrs. Howard White, Cincinnati.

Church of Brethren Aid

Eighteen members responded to roll call when the Ladies' Aid Society of the Church of the Brethren met for the November session at the home of Mrs. Charles Sterling, Circleville.

After the business meeting, the evening was passed in playing interesting games in charge of Mrs. Doyle Cupp. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Charles Essick, Mrs. Arthur Cupp, Mrs. Charles Sterling and Mrs. Earl Smith.

Mrs. Lloyd Smith was welcomed as a new member.

At the close of the evening, an enjoyable box lunch was served.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Dagon, Circleville, Route 3.

Wooster Day Tea

Graduates and former students of the College of Wooster, living in or near Columbus, will hold a tea at 3 p. m. Sunday, December 8, at the Southern Hotel in observance of the twentieth annual "Wooster Day."

Wooster now has 349 alumni or former students living in Columbus or vicinity. All of them are members of the Wooster Club of Columbus. Circleville is included in the area of the Columbus Club.

Miss Ellen Gray, Columbus, is president of the club; Vernon W. Wanger, Columbus, Mrs. William C. McMinn, Columbus, and J. Wayne Morrison, Columbus, vice presidents; Miss Gene E. Hoopes, Columbus, secretary-treasurer.

The first "Wooster Day" was held in 1921. The date, December 11, was selected for the annual meeting of Wooster Clubs because it is significant in Wooster's history.

December 11, 1900, the college library which now has $2,000 volumes, was dedicated. December 11, 1901, fire destroyed "Old Main", six-story brick building which housed most of Wooster's laboratories and classrooms.

December 11, 1902, just one year later, dedication exercises were held for four new buildings, Kauke, Scoval, Severance and Deems Taylor has completed his original score for "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and Don Voorhees and his orchestra will interpret the music as a background for Alexander Woolcott's appearance after a postponement, as star on "Cavalade of America" Wednesday, December 4, over the NBC-Red network. The music which Voorhees will play paints a portrait of a nation in travail and an impression of the spirit aroused by Julia Ward Howe's Civil War hymn.

For the second time in four years, the Washington Redskins and the Chicago Bears today were paired as rivals for the National Professional League football championship to be decided in a playoff game in Washington next Sunday.

The Redskins captured the league's eastern sectional honors yesterday by drubbing the Philadelphia Eagles, 13 to 6, in a record-breaking forward pass demonstration and the bears won western honors by marking up a 31 to 23 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

Thus came to an end the closest race in the league's 20-year history, for it wasn't until the final day of the season that the divisional titles were clinched.

In the nation's capital the Marshalmen won the ball game from the hapless Eagles, but it was little Davey O'Brien, playing his last game before becoming a G-man, who was the main attraction.

The former Texas Christian all-American completed the amazing total of 33 out of 60 passes, for a total of 316 yards, to shatter all existing records. Davey's 33 completions in one game beat by ten the previous record established only a week ago by Sammy Baugh of the Redskins. The 316 yards gained also set a new mark by 30 yards.

Baugh Boots One

Not to be outdone, Baugh set a record by getting off an 85-yard punt from the line of scrimmage. Actually, Baugh quick-kicked from his own three and the ball was downed on Philadelphia's three.

Wilbur Moore dashed 27 yards for one Washington touchdown and Dick Todd plunged over from the four for the other. O'Brien, who didn't have a heave intercepted, pegged a 30-yard pass to Frank Emmmons for Philadelphia's tally.

The Bears registered all their points in the first half to trounce the Cards and win the title before 13,909 fans.

The biggest crowd of the pro season—54,993—turned out in the frigid Polo Grounds to see the Brooklyn Dodgers whip the New York Giants, 14 to 6, and capture second place in the eastern circuit. It was the first time in 10 years that the Dodgers had taken the Giants on the gridiron.

Ace Parker was a one-man riot again for the Sutherland powerhouse, sparking his team's attack and passing 24 and 44 yards, respectively for the Brooklyn tallies. Len Barnum passed 17 yards to Jim Howell for New York's points.

Capt. Mel Hein, who has been the Giants' pivot man for the last ten campaigns, was honored by the fans and was presented with a new car and a host of other gifts.

Packers, Rams tie

The Green Bay Packers, last year's champions, finished in the also ran column behind the Bears this season, closing the campaign by battling the Cleveland Rams to a 13 to 13 tie. Johnny Drake plunged five yards for one Cleveland score and Parker Hall passed to Ollie Cordell for the other. Hal Van Every passed to Don Hutson for Green Bay's first points in the fourth period and Clark Hinkle booted two field goals in the waning minutes to salvage a tie.

Circleville '5' To Begin Court Schedule Tuesday

With the first game on Circleville High's 1940-41 schedule only a day away, Coach Roy M. Black is still uncertain concerning his starting lineup. The Red and Black and Washington Township open festivities Tuesday evening in the C.A.C. gym, the reserves at 7:15 and the varsity teams at 8:15. Jake Von Kanel of London will be the referee.

The Tigers have been practicing for two weeks and Coach Black has thinned out his first team possibilities to 10 boys, but he hasn't given any indication concerning which five will get the call at starting time Tuesday night.

The 10 considered possibilities are Callihan, Woods, Moon and Siegwald, forwards; Carr and Jackson, centers; Martin, Geib, Moorehead and Ayers, guards.

None of the above 10 boys has ever started a varsity contest, four of last season's five starters having graduated and the fifth, Joe Staley, being unable to play yet because of an ankle injury received in football. Of the 10 only Callihan and Martin are lettermen.

Washington Township's outfit is rangy and experienced and is expected to test the Red and Black. At the forwards Coach Loren Straight has been using Wertman and Matz, with Rife at center and Brobst and Reichelderfer at guards. The latter, however, will not be available since he has gone to Chicago to attend the International Livestock Exposition. Hill or Bolender will take his place.

New equipment has been ordered for the Circleville team, but it will not be here in time for the lifeline.

UNABLE TO WIN FROM MASSILLON, SO CANTON COACH GIVES UP JOB

CANTON, Dec. 2—John Reed, Canton High School football coach for the last five years, today tendered his resignation to Supt. Jesse H. Mason.

In his five-year span as McKinley grid coach, Reed's teams have won 39 games, lost 7 and tied one—but five of the defeats were at the hands of Massillon's Tigers.

Reed probably will be retained on the McKinley faculty to coach baseball, Mason said.

NEBRASKA TEAM STANFORD FOE IN ROSE BOWL

Cornhuskers Beaten Only By Minnesota Chosen For New Year's

VOLS TO PLAY BOSTON

Mississippi State To Vie At Miami Against Club Not Yet Named

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—The only post-season football game bringing together two major undefeated and untied teams will be played at New Orleans on New Year's Day when Tennessee and Boston College tangle up in the Sugar Bowl. Both have finished their schedules with perfect records to establish themselves among the super-stalwarts of a year which has seen a half dozen or more teams playing along briskly for a while only to falter finally.

One of the few other survivors is Stanford, which will pit its record of nine straight against Nebraska, beaten only by Minnesota, when the opening whistle is tooted in Pasadena's Rose Bowl. Minnesota also would-up without having been even tied, but can't enter into post-season competition due to Big Ten regulations.

Mississippi State will send a once-tied team into Miami's Orange Bowl to meet an opponent yet to be selected, while once-beaten Fordham will take on a once-beaten survivor of the Southwest Conference in the Dallas Cotton Bowl. Texas A and M. has run through its slate with one defeat, and is the chief contender to face the Rams, although Southern Methodist and Rice are in the running. The winner of their game next Saturday will tie the Aggies for the circuit title.

Boston Tops In East
Boston College completed its season Saturday by beating Holy Cross, 7 to 0, for undisputed leadership in the East, while Tennessee remained the No. 1 eleven in the South with a 20 to 0 win over Vanderbilt.

Mississippi State provisionally clinched its Orange Bowl berth by downing Alabama, 13 to 0, and is all set now for the big battle on New Year's Day with any opponent that may be selected.

Stanford won the coast title and its place in the Rose Bowl by trimming California, 13 to 7, and Nebraska climbed on the Big Six conference throne with a 20 to 0 triumph over Kansas State.

Fordham, stopped only by St. Mary's earlier in the year, trounced New York University, 26 to 0 in its finale.

Rice turned back Baylor, 21 to 12 Southern Methodist scored over Texas Christian, 16 to 0, to leave next Saturday's clash between these two to decide which of them will tie the Texas Aggies for Southwest leadership.

102,000 See Navy Win

The foregoing contests were the most important on the last big week end of the season insofar as their outcome had a bearing on the post-season festivities, but there were other stellar struggles, not overlooking the one at Philadelphia between Navy and Army before 102,000 spectators. Navy won, 14 to 0, to finish the year with two losses and a tie against Army's record of one victory.

Grand Jury Starts Study Of 27 Varied Complaints

September Group Called; Police Charge Theft Of Fur Coat

CHASE BRINGS ARRESTS

Manslaughter And Bribery Affidavits To Be Aired In Investigation

A fur coat, stolen from a West Main Street cafe late Saturday night, sent two persons to County Jail and added another case to the 26 scheduled to be heard before the September term grand jury, now in session.

Arrested were Chester Fowler, 502 East Mound Street, and his wife, Dora, Fowler charged with grand larceny and his wife with being his accomplice. Both were bound over to the grand jury on $1,000 bonds when they appeared before Mayor William B. Cady Sunday night.

Patrolmen George Green and Earl Radcliff, the arresting officers, reported they were notified of the theft early Sunday by a person who saw Fowler and his wife leave the cafe with the coat.

As Fowler drove west out of town the patrolmen gave chase and overtook him at the city limits. Patrolman Green said he got out of the police car and attempted to stop Fowler, who turned around and started out the old tannery road, but was overtaken by the cruiser after a short chase. Fowler had attempted to hide the coat under the front seat, Patrolman Green said.

In his hearing before Mayor Cady, Fowler admitted he had taken the coat, but denied that his wife had anything to do with the theft.

Coat Valued at $165

The coat belonged to Miss Helen Hartman, of Circleville. Police valued the coat at $165.

The Fowler case brings the total number to be heard before the grand jury to 27.

Among other cases to be considered by the jury is that of Charles Mumaw, 411 East Mound Street, former Circleville patrolman, against whom bribery charges were filed August 23 by Chief of Police William McCrady. When the case appeared before Safety Director Karl Herrmann, the safety director absolved Mumaw. Later bribery charges were filed against the former patrolman in Justice of Peace B. T. Hedges' court. Mumaw pleaded innocent and was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond.

Andrew M. Wright, 34, of 630 Taylor Street, Dayton, involved in an auto accident October 20, which resulted in the death of Miss Catherine F. Stapleton and Millard Campbell, remains in County Jail pending hearing before the jury, with manslaughter charges filed against him. The charges were filed by William Curry, half-brother to Miss Stapleton, and Ancil Campbell, father of Millard.

Jury members include Mrs. E. Clendennen, Washington Township; Albert Grimes, Perry Township; W. L. Mason, Scioto Township; Mrs. Sam Brinker, Walnut Township; Elizabeth Young, Pickaway Township; C. M. Scothorn, Walnut Township; John Wilson, Harrison Township; Evelyn Steele, Circleville; Roy Stewart, Perry Township; H. D. Goodman, Salt-creek Township; Ralph McCoy, Washington Township; Mrs. Cora Haacker, Circleville; John Heskell, Circleville; Mrs. Ray Reid, Circleville; and Aaron Brown, Circleville.

TWIN TOWNSHIP BALLOT LOOMS ON SCHOOL LEVY

CHILLICOTHE, Dec. 2 — A special meeting of the Ross County Board of Education may be called to consider ordering a special election for the resubmission of a three-mill school tax in Twin Township, Wilbur Kidnocker, chairman of the Ross County board has announced.

Defeat of the special three-mill operating levy in the general election cut the school short of funds and necessitated its closing for six days. Twin board members say the school's operating funds will be in the red September 1, 1941, unless a three mill levy is passed.

Road Chief Warns Of Signs Near Highways

In keeping with the requirements of a program for increased traffic safety, J. Perry Shumaker, chief engineer, Division Six Ohio Department of Highways with headquarters located at Delaware, has issued a word of warning that all signs within the right of way limits of the highways must come down.

Mr. Shumaker's edict is done with the knowledge that the snow and ice removal and control program this winter will of its own volition remove many of the signs and acts as a warning to remove these signs if the owners wish to preserve them.

The principal idea behind the move to clear up roadsides in Division Six is to provide greater safety on the highways in this eight county area of Central Ohio for which Mr. Shumaker is responsible. The signs act as a menace to drivers especially during the winter months when skidding is increased.

At his Delaware office Mr. Shumaker stated "I think when the matter of improper location of signs is called to the attention of owners they will comply readily. The state law states distinctly that no signs shall be placed within the limits of the right of way."

"We expect to give warnings first and feel confident that step will remove most of the signs without further action on our part. Few people violate the law intentionally, nor willingly trespass on the rights of others."

Legible Farther Back

"The eight counties for which we are responsible have been extremely cooperative and we have endeavored to show the same attitude. If for no other reason we have to keep the right of way clear to reduce hazards to our own equipment. Signs are just as legible back a few feet where they belong as they are almost crowding the edge of the pavement," were further remarks of Mr. Shumaker.

The eight counties referred to in Division Six are Delaware, Fayette, Franklin, Madison, Marion, Morrow, Pickaway and Union.

Division Six under Mr. Shumaker's supervision is considering the establishment of road patrols in the near future. If these patrols are inaugurated it will be their duty to report violations of the right of way law, unfavorable snow and ice conditions and check on the speed with which the unfavorable driving conditions are corrected. If the patrols are possible, this will be the first division in the state to take such extra precautionary methods to improve driving conditions.

Division Six stood out last year as being the leader in the state in removing snow and correcting icy conditions on the highways.

The funds distributed locally are a part of the three hundred and sixty-five million dollars that will be distributed to more than seven and one half million Christmas club members by approximately 4800 banking and savings institutions and other organizations during National Prosperity Week.

20,000 BRIGGS PLANT WORKERS BACK AT TASKS

DETROIT, Dec. 2 — Approximately 20,000 employees of the Briggs Manufacturing Company and the Plymouth division of the Chrysler Motor Corporation returned to their jobs today following settlement of a labor dispute in the panel department of one of the Briggs plants.

James F. Dewey, ace conciliator for the U. S. Department of Labor, announced settlement of the dispute four hours after he arrived in Detroit to confer with officials of the Briggs firm and the UAW-CIO.

The shut-down which idled the 20,000 men started Friday when 17 workers in the Briggs panel department ceased work after a UAW-CIO steward was reportedly sent home. Unable to obtain supplies from the Briggs plant, the Plymouth division was forced to send its employees home also, and neither plant operated Saturday.

In his announcement of the settlement, Dewey said the dispute was caused by a "misunderstanding which now has been settled satisfactorily." "The men will return to their jobs," he added.

Although the tea plant has many leaves, only the tender bud and top three to five leaves are picked for use in the manufacture of the product. This is because they are the tenderest and contain the best flavor.

ELKS CONDUCT MEMORIAL RITE

School Superintendent On Program; Hall Crowded For Annual Event

One of the most impressive memorial services ever conducted by the Circleville Elks Lodge was held Sunday afternoon before the largest crowd to ever attend a Lodge of Sorrow. The lodge room was filled with extra chairs being required.

The event is an annual one, all lodges in the nation setting aside the first Sunday in December to pay tribute to deceased Elks. Four members of the lodge, Edward Wittich, Robert M. Anderson, Harry B. Weaver and Harry W. Goeller, have died in the last year. Since the lodge's organization 125 have died when members of the order.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville schools, was introduced as the speaker, and his excellent address stressed the significance of the memorial service. Mr. Fischer quoted from numerous authors and poets in bringing out his points. The talk was well-received.

The lodge's ritualistic service was directed by Exalted Ruler Andrew Thomas with music being furnished by Hunter Chambers, pianist, and the Elks Lodge double quartet which sang "Remember Me O Mighty One," "We'll Never Say Good-bye," and "That Beautiful Land."

The program was concluded with all singing "Auld Lang Syne". The lodge is planning a dinner and initiation Tuesday evening, a large class of candidates to be inducted in honor of General John J. Pershing. This event, too, is nation-wide.

ARMY PRIVATE'S DEATH DECIDED TO BE ACCIDENT

FORT DIX, N. J., Dec. 2 — Military officials pronounced themselves satisfied today that the fatal shooting of Private Edward Zenobi, 19, of Woodlyne, N. J., by his friend, Private Victor A. Pirelli of Conshohocken, Pa., was an accident.

Pirelli, they said, told them that when he playfully pulled the trigger of his gun at Zenobi he had forgotten that it contained a bullet.

Pirelli was being held pending a hearing Friday. Maj. Gen. Clifford N. Powell, division commander, said he was convinced that the shooting was accidental and that Pirelli would be absolved.
